Archives mission statement

The Logan College of Chiropractic Archives strives to identify, preserve, and make accessible primary source material relating to the history of the college and to the history of chiropractic in accordance with accepted archival principles. Its primary purpose is to document the history of Logan College of Chiropractic and the general history of the field of Chiropractic. Contents of the archives shall provide source material for administrators, faculty, students, alumni, scholars, authors and other interested members of the chiropractic community. These materials include records generated by Logan College of Chiropractic such as newsletters, promotional materials, and catalogs. They also include items that have been donated by other chiropractic agencies or individuals and have historical significance to either Logan College or the chiropractic profession.

Goals and Objectives

Goals are the general ideals that we strive to uphold through the development of Logan’s archives. Objectives are the measured steps by which we can gauge how well we are accomplishing our goals.

Goal I:

To promote knowledge and understanding of the history and programs of Logan College of Chiropractic by providing access to historical information about the college.

a. Continue the development of a collection of college publications, including newsletters, bulletins, yearbooks, magazines, faculty handbooks, student handbooks, and other official, internal, and other promotional publications (including electronic and other non-traditional and non-print forms) representative of the various historical phases of the college’s development.

b. Continue the development of a collection of photographs that visually document the historical phase’s of the college’s development.

c. Create web accessible finding aids that will promote use of the archives.

d. Promote displays of Logan’s museum and archives holdings.

Goal II:

To promote a sense of community among all Logan students, alumni, administration, faculty, staff, and friends of the college.

a. Create displays and digital representations of rare books, photographs, yearbooks, and materials to allow greater access.

b. Create programs and displays of various forms and in various formats and maintain collections highlighting university culture and educational emphases.

c. Provide activities and programs intended to create a bridge between current and future generations of students, alumni, and other community members to promote preservation of positive and meaningful University traditions.
Goal III:

To promote a better understanding of the history of chiropractic among all Logan students, alumni, administration, faculty, staff, and friends of the college.

a. Create programs, activities, and presentations that will promote the use of the archives among the various groups of potential users.

Reference: